MILWAUKEE IN FLAMES

Hundreds of Blocks of Fine Buildings

CONSUMED BY THE DEMON

Thousands of Poor People Homeless. Losses Will Reach Into the Millions.

MILWAUKEE, October 28.—This city tonight was visited by the most devasting fire in the city's history.

Four lives were certainly lost and probably more.

Conservative insurance men estimate the loss at not less than $60,000,000.

Flames which started in the Union Oil company's building, on East water street near Detroit street, were fanned by a furious gale and swept eastward across toward the Menominee river and nothing could stay their resistless rush.

Dynamite was used but without effect. Mighty billows of flame swept over blocks of buildings and jumped across the streets and leaped over the river. Thousands of people viewed the grand spectacle. All sorts of conveyances were hurrying about the Third ward, loaded with belongings of the people whose homes were burning.

The entire fire department was powerless. Chicago, Racine and other cities were asked for assistance and by 10 o'clock the engines and firemen from out of town were beginning to arrive. More than eleven blocks of solid territory, including much of the most extensive wholesale district, having been burned over, consisting of nearly seventy buildings, two-thirds of which were frame residences that faded into smoke.

Several squares have already been destroyed.

Large numbers of wholesale houses have gone, also many residences.

The course of the fire changed about 8.30 and is now likely to consume the territory between Broadway and Jefferson streets to the east and west.

The Branch river and the big Angus Smith grain elevators are burning, and not only is the fire advancing with the wind, but has begun slowly to back up at the point it started, and where there is no means of staying its progress.

The entire lower part of the Third ward, inhabited largely by poor working people, is devastated, nearly 300 cottages being destroyed, and the inmates wandering about the streets loudly lamenting their loss.

Alarms are coming in every few minutes from widely separated districts, and it is feared that incendiaries are helping the work of destruction.

At 8.45 p.m. the fire was still spreading rapidly.

The gas works have been burned and many parts of the city are in darkness.

Flames have reached the freight yards of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and whole trains of cars loaded with merchandise and grain are burning.

The elegant residence of L. F. Hodges, a member of the chamber of commerce, at Ninth and Cedar streets, two miles from the big fire, has been destroyed.

An alarm has just rung in—9.16—from the house of correction.

The gas works are burning fiercely and frequent explosions shake the city.

The fire department is using dynamite in its efforts to stop the advance of the flames.

Several engines have been taken back to the point where the fire began and are trying to keep the flames from eating their way north on East Water street.

The wind is blowing a gale, which breaks the streams of water from the hose into spray a few feet from the nozzels.

The fire is slowly eating its way toward the Sentinel newspaper office and the wealthy wholesale houses surrounding it.

Many scenes of the great fire at Chicago are being re-enacted—dynamite explosions, leaping flames, crumbling walls and wandering, homeless people.

One fireman and an unknown woman are known to have been killed.

A report has just come from the life saving station that four of a crew going up Broadway to assist the firemen were buried by a falling wall at Weisel & Walter's machine shop.

The light horse squadron and an infantry regiment has been called out to assist the police force in guarding property.

The fire is almost to the border of Lake Michigan, destroying grain elevators and ships in the river.

It is rumored that lives were lost in Beebe & Kips' factory, as the employes had no time to escape.

Up to 1 a.m. two dead bodies of firemen had been brought to the morgue.

Insurance men estimate the entire loss will aggregate $6,000,000 to 11.13 p.m.

The fire is still spreading.

About a dozen steamers and schooners have been removed from the Milwaukee to the Kennickinnic river, where they are out of harm's way.

The fire started in a store occupied by the Union Ice company on Water street.

As the three fires in various sections of the city had called many engines out it was fifteen minutes before a response was made to the alarm from the corner of Detroit and East Water streets.

In a short time seven or eight streams were directed upon the flames. There were a series of explosions, but in half an hour after the fire tug and a dozen engines were playing upon fire.

The belief was general that the fire was under control, but it burst out again with renewed fury.

A gale was blowing fifty miles an hour, and driving the scorching heat and smoke and boiling oil out into the faces of the firemen, and then it got beyond all human efforts to stay it.

At 7 o'clock a big upholstery factory, almost a full block away, began to blaze. The fire had started with the wind northeast, but now verried almost due east.

It seemed as if mountains of fire rolled across Broadway. In an instant not a building on East Broadway was in flames and the next a rolling wave of fire swept across the street and descended on the buildings opposite, and in a moment they were wrapped in flames.

A thousand streams of water could not have stayed the conflagration in its march of destruction toward the lake.

People in that part of the Third ward realized that their homes were doomed. There was a stampede of residents into the street, all armed with household utensils and bedding, and vehicles of every description were carrying away the belongings of people whose homes were soon to be in ruins.

The wind was still carrying the whirlwind of seething flames toward Lake Michigan in a direct line with its starting point, and a scramble began.

A dozen frame buildings along Milwaukee and Jefferson streets, between Detroit and Chicago, as well as those on Buffalo and Chicago streets, were licked up as if they had been outlined on paper.

All those buildings were consumed within half an hour of the time when the flames leaped over Broadway and started in the Wellauer block.

Suddenly the wind swept around as unexpectedly as before, where it was when the first alarm rang in.

It was now almost due south, cutting out a broad avenue of destruction toward the Milwaukee river and Lake Michigan.

In its path lay the big freight sheds and yards of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, which together with the roundhouse and its valuable contents of rolling stock soon spread all over the yards, burning freight cars and everything before it.

Having cut its path over to Jackson street from Broadway the fire was now following the south wind down Broadway, down Jefferson street, down Milwaukee street, along Broadway, when it swept to the Waisel & Bolter manufacturing company's plant, which was blown up to stop the flames.

It was about 9.30 when the first building on the northeast corner of the Milwaukee Gas company's plant began to burn. The gas went out in many parts of the city.

11 p.m.—The fire has lapped up everything in the territory bounded on the west by the north branch of the Milwaukee river, on the east by the lake and south the harbor branch of the rever, twenty-two solid blocks, five of which were occupied by wholesale houses, factories, distilleries, etc., and the rest by residences.

This does not include the vast yards of the Western railroad which covers many acres.

No telling at this hour to what extent the fire may burn. It is extending south of Broadway bridge and backing up Detroit street, at the river front and at the lake.

The fire is hottest now just west and north of the gas house, and east of the gas house it has consumed everything. The flames are also eating their way south to Erie street and will probably consume everything in that locality.

Not a gas light is burning in the city and in some portions of the city where there is no electric light, are in total darkness.

Four additional men have been taken to the emergency hospital, all seriously injured by the falling walls.

2.30 a.m.—Chief Foley has announced that the fire is fully under control.

Will Help in the Fight.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 28.—Members of the cabinet now in this city held an informal meeting tonight for the purpose of deciding on the course of action in regard to participation in the campaign. As a result it was decided that Secretary Rusk should speak in Wisconsin, Secretary Noble in Missouri, Attorney General Miller in West Virginia, Postmaster General Wanamaker in Pennsylvania, and Secretary Charles Foster in Ohio. Secretary Elkins will also speak in West Virginia and probably elsewhere. Secretaries John W. Foster and Tracy are not likely to take a part in the campaign. The President knew nothing of the meeting.

Leed's New Circular.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 28.—Manager Leeds of the Traffic association, by order of the executive committee of that body, has issued a circular address to voters of the state in the interest of those legislative candidates who have subscribed to a pledge lately submitted to them by the association. In this pledge candidates bound themselves to do away with the railroad commission, and also to wipe out, so far as possible, all existing railroad legislation. The circular now issued by the Traffic association gives a list of names of would-be senators and assemblymen who have agreed to the pledge, and asks the voters of the state to support them on election day.

The W.C.T.U.

DENVER, October 28.—The National Woman's Christian Temperance union met today in annual session. Miss Frances Willard presided and delivered the annual address. Miss Willard recommended the local unions to petition their respective legislatures to establish homes for drunkards, with a view to their reclamation. Touching on cures for drunkenness, she expressed an earnest belief in the efficacy of science in that direction, and suggested that the union establish such an institution, to be run not as a money making concern, but for the common good.

Arrested for Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 28.—Charles Calhoun was arrested for murder today while preparing to escape. The schooners Horace Templeton and Express collided on the bay September 17th and in a quarrel while trying to separate the boats, Calhoun of the Templeton struck A. B. Anderson of the Express on the head with a piece of scantling from the effects of which he has since died.

Calhoun was released on $1000 bail, pending the outcome of Anderson's injuries, and will now be tried for murder.

Iams on Trial.

PITTSBURG, October 28.—In the Iams case today the defendants perfected their special plea and then Attorney Ives moved to strike out the special pleas. Judge Porter said: "If a military commander exceeds his duty or goes beyond his authority he is amenable in the civil courts for the results of such acts."

Judge Watson opened for the commonwealth, and Iams was placed on the stand and detailed in a cool manner the story of his punishment.

Killed in a Duel.

MADISON, Fla., October 28.—A duel occurred near here yesterday in which George Rohan, a northern man who recently came here to superintend the business of a tobacco syndicate, was shot and killed by Joe Dickerson, a well known negro. The cause of the tragedy is supposed to be woman trouble. A posse is hunting for Dickerson.

Eleven Drowned.

LISBON, October 28.—A ferry boat capsized in the River Duro, throwing all the passengers into the water and eleven were drowed.

THE YALE REPUBLICANS

Treated to a Feast of Facts and Figures

BY HON. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

Who Admires Cleveland for Endeavoring to Make Himself Larger Than His Party.

NEW HAVEN, October 28.—Yale University, particularly that part of its under graduate forces which advocates the doctrines of the Republican party, tonight testified to its regard of the distinguished graduate in the person of Chauncey M. Depew, who was the principal speaker at the Republican rally. He was warmly received and spoke at length on the issues of the day, paying his respects in a humorous manner to Carl Schurz and Wayne MacVeagh. He admired Cleveland, not for his discretion or wisdom, but for his determination to have the right of way and die, if necessary, fighting, as he did in 1888. There was one thing about Mr. Harrison in opposition to the common view of Cleveland, he did not seem himself a bigger man than this party; he was a simple, patriotic representative of the grandest party in the history of the country.

A DAY OF GLOOM.

Interment of Mrs. Harrison at Her Old Home.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 28.—The funeral train bearing the remains of Mrs. Harrison arrived here this morning at 9.31.

All along the route after daylight at all the stations people gathered to see the train go by. A mass of people was gathered about when the train came into the station, and all stood reverently with bowed heads as the solemn cortege emerged from the station and took places in the waiting carriages.

The Presbyterian church, in which the services were held, was beautifully decorated with floral emblems.

The services were very simple. The choir sang Cardinal Newman's celebrated hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light."

Dr. Haines and Dr. Hyde offered invocations and a funeral sermon was preached from the text, "Wherefore comfort ye one another."

The interment was at Crown Hill cemetery.

Soon after the train arrived, at the request of the President, the casket was opened and the sad ceremony of taking a last look at the face of the dead followed. The features were calm and peaceful as if asleep. It was a sad moment for the President and he was nearly overcome.

The party left here at 5.30 on the return to Washington.

Just before his departure the President gave the press a note to the public of which the following is a copy:

"My Dear Old Friends and Neighbors—I cannot leave you without saying that the tender and gracious sympathy which you today showed for me and my children, and the much more touching evidence you have given of your love for dear wife and mother, have deeply moved our hearts. We fear to tarry with you and to rest near the hallowed spot where your loving hands have laid our dead, but the little grandchildren watch in wandering silence for our return and need our care, and some public business that will not longer wait upon my sorrow. May a gracious God keep and bless you all. Most gratefully yours,

"BENJAMIN HARRISON."

New Officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 28.—The annual meeting of the State Horticultural society was held here today. The election of officers resulted as follows: Professor E. W. Hilgard, honorary president; B. M. Lelong, president; Leonard Coates, vice president; A. T. Perkins, treasurer; E. J. Wickson, secretary; board of directors, Fred O. Mills, N. P. Batchelder, J. L. Mosher, E. M. Maslin and H. Overacker Jr.

The Deadly Rail.

TERRE HAUTE, October 28.—A terrible collision between two of the Big Four freight trains occurred this morning on the Wabash river bridge here. The shock broke the bridge and piled the two engines and a dozen cars, several loaded with live stock, into the water beneath. Engineer Wesley Allison of the eastbound train lies underneath his engine. The other trainmen are hurt.

Lost in the Lake.

MARQUETTE, Mich., October 28.—A scow with six or seven men on board broke away from the tug Edward Fisk about five miles off of Granite island. A heavy gale is blowing and a furious sea running. The life saving crew have gone out to search along the beach, but it is feared the men will never be heard from again.

Found Watery Graves.

LISBON, October 28.—The report of the loss of the Roumania is confirmed—113 were drowned and only 9 saved. The Roumania had 55 passengers and a crew of 67.

The Villain Still at Large.

SANTA BARBARA, October 28.—Mozeras, the Indian who shot and seriously injured Miss Havens at Cathedral Oaks, is still at large, though a posse is pursuing him.

A Runaway Team Stopped.

S. H. Saffell intercepted a runaway horse on the railroad reservation near Kern street about 10 o'clock last night and doubtless saved the occupants, a couple of ladies, from a serious accident. The horse became frightened at the cars and the ladies were unable to control the animal.

Craigie Sharp, Jr., is down from Martinez looking after his interests here.

TOO MUCH AT STAKE.

Voters should remember that every ballot cast for a Democratic candidate for the Legislature is a vote for Stephen M. White for United States senator. He is the only avowed candidate in the Democratic party in California for that office.

The charge has been made time and again in the press and on the platform that Mr. White is a protege of Collis P. Huntington. This charge has never been publicly denied.

Mr. White made a desperate fight in the Democratic state convention which met in this city several months ago against the adoption of the anti-railroad resolution. He was opposed by a majority of the Democrats in the party, led by ex-Senator Jeremiah Lynch and ex-Judge J. F. Sullivan. It is also true that he is being actively supported by every recognized Democratic railroad organ in the state.

This is a matter of importance to the voters of this state, but not of greater importance than the fact that the election of Mr. White will help to cut down the already small Republican majority in the United States senate, which may prove to the only barrier between the country and the free trade views enunciated in the Democratic platform. There is too much at stake for this state in the maintenance of protection to our raisins, dried fruits and other protected industries to take any chances on the election of a free trader to the United States senate.

WON'T HAVE FREE TRADE.

The unwillingness of intelligent Democrats to do violence to their own common sense by accepting the absurdities of the calamity party is an obstacle which stands between Grover Cleveland and the White House. Here, for example, is the Troy (New York) Press, a leading Democratic paper in a Democratic stronghold, hauling Thomas G. Shearman over the coals for asserting that "a protective tariff is a tax upon the poor for the exclusive profit of those who are already rich." Up in Troy they have a great collar industry and know something about its beneficent influences on the industrial life of their city. The Troy Press says:

A material reduction in duty upon linen collars would be decidedly detrimental to thousands of working girls and women. It would mean lower wages and cheaper living for the operatives, and smaller sales for the merchants, grocers, butchers, milliners and the like who share their patronage. It would be a decided loss to Troy, and to none more than the working classes of this city. The rich manufacturers might live as well as they do today; they are not the ones who would feel the pinch of lower duties. Mr. Shearman is monstrously mistaken in his assumption when we apply it to collars, although he may be right in regard to certain non-competitive importations.

The Democratic workmen of the whole country know as well as this Democratic editor that these are the simple facts. Yet to give expression to them is accounted rank treason to the Democratic cause. Only by stifling their consciences and running counter to their own best interests can intelligent workingmen vote for Cleveland. That the situation in Troy is exactly the situation in countless other centers of industry throughout the country is the explanation of the gloom rapidly settling around the managers of the calamity campaign.

SENATOR DAVE HILL, in a speech on Tuesday night, paid his compliments to Wayne MacVeagh in the following language: "I have nothing but contempt for the ostentatious zeal of a new convert who, after having enjoyed the honors and emoluments of a position conferred on him by his own party, assails his former associates with venomous vituperation."

THE prosperous condition of the country makes the free trader fairly sick of his calamity job.

MR. BUTLER'S LOAD.

"I do not want free trade in my industry or in any other line of business, but the raisin grower can get along nicely and be prosperous under a modified tariff. * * *

"From a selfish standpoint it would be a good thing for the grower if the tax [on raisins] was made very high, and a still better thing if the foreign article was entirely prohibited. It would compel the public to pay big prices and would get very rich from its legalized monopoly. * * *

"Some of the high duties were no doubt demanded by the necessities of the war, but there is no need of them now. In fact they are a positive danger to the country."

The foregoing are extracts from an interview with Albin B. Butler, published in the San Francisco Examiner of October 19, 1892. He is perhaps the only raisin grower in California who advocates the reduction of the present duty on raisins. From the tenor of his remarks Mr. Butler is evidently of the impression, shared by many other Democrats, that the McKinley tariff is producing a revenue far in excess of the necessities of the nation.

This impression is a mistaken one. The war debt of the nation has not yet been paid, and millions of dollars for interest have to be expended every year, and aside from this the running expenses of the government are increasing annually. Under the McKinley tariff imports in many lines have decreased and hundreds of factories have sprung into existence all over the country to supply the home demand, thus diminishing the demand for foreign made articles.

Thousands of acres have been planted in raisin vines in California because of the protection afforded by the tariff, the importation of the Spanish product has correspondingly decreased, and the price to the consumer has been greatly reduced by domestic competition.

In the same interview Mr. Butler says: "If the restriction [of imports caused by the tariff] is great, the higher the price of the article, and as neither the foreign nor the domestic seller or producer reduces his price in proportion to the extent of the duty, but adds it in as a part of his cost of production, no one but the consumer is left to pay it."

According to Mr. Butler's brilliant reasoning the producer of raisins in Fresno county who sells his goods in the sweat box at 4½ cents per pound has added the 2½ cents a pound tariff to his price, so that if there were no duty at all on raisins he would sell them for 2 cents.

It is evident that Mr. Butler has been hit on the nape of the neck with the stupid club of his own logic.

It may be safely said that there is not a raisin grower in California (not a possible candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket) who advocates a reduction of the tariff on raisins as Mr. Butler does.

New York Republicans are having a hot fight with the Tammany register similtare, and in prosecuting their investigations under the law in the tenement house districts, where the majority of illegal voters are colonized, the agents of the national committee have met with much resistance and a number of savage assaults. The investigation is being diligently prosecuted, however, in the face of this bitter opposition, and it is hoped that the commonly successful efforts of the notorious Tammany corruptionists to carry the election in New York city by their usual methods will this year be defeated by the vigilant efforts which are being made by the national committee.

If all the charges of political corruption now being made by the various political parties in San Francisco are true, the necessity of a "force bill" for that particular municipality cannot be denied. All the power of the government, "backed by gleaming federal bayonets," would be required to stem the tide of political villainy if one-half the assertions are founded on fact.

THE Democratic editors afflicted with the force bill bogie have the same symptoms as the victim of delirium tremens. They see all sorts of horrid things which exist only in their diseased imaginations.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

HOME AND HOME FOLKS AFTER THE SUMMER VACATION.

Patient Waiters—Mother's Vacation—A Woman's Project—Advice for Hot Weather—Beware of Summer Colds. Notes for Mothers and Housekeepers.

Though it is perhaps a little soon to think of returning from one's summer outing when there are so many who have not yet gone away, and as also the weather wooes us from rather than toward the city, yet one cannot control the current of the mind to such a degree that there will not loiter somewhere in the corners the anticipation of what will be done when we once again reach home.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder, especially of the inanimate objects left behind. It is a perfect delight to note the chairs just where they used to stand; the little knickknacks in our own room telling their tale of gifts with pleasant associations, and becoming acquainted all over again with the workings of the home. In all the days that have gone so swiftly by have we ever met any among the many new acquaintances that could compare with the home folks? Were there ever such dear, gracious, lovable people in the world as father and mother? No girl was so pretty or boy so clever as the sister and brother who are most hearty in their welcome, their kisses and loving little pats of affection keeping up even when hat and wrap have been laid aside.

Even though we may not be physically benefited one iota by our summer outing, yet to every one a trip of a few days is beneficial in one way, at least—it brings out the home folks and home surroundings in an entirely different light when compared with the glamour and insincerity of the outside world, and unless the mind is shallow and the inclinations most frivolous, there will be no yearnings for the pomps and vanities, but a thankful heart and rare appreciation of the genuineness of the dear ones who love us for ourselves.—Philadelphia Times.

Patient Waiters.

The Italian singers, Sofia and Giulia Ravogli, who became quite suddenly the delight of London musical circles, are very modest and patient women. They can bear to defer enjoyment even of the praise which is theirs by right. Mlle. Giulia was one day talking with a friend, who happened to make some remark about the enthusiastic notices the two singers had received from all the London papers.

"Yes, every one tell me so," replied she in her pretty, broken English, "and we get such a lot of funny little rolls of de brown paper sent to us many time in de day, and we puts dem all in dis big drawer, to save up when we go home."

Here she pulled out the drawer and displayed a quantity of newspapers, not one of which had been opened.

"But don't you look at them?" asked her friend.

"Oh, not yet we look; but see here," producing a book which shall contain them some day."

This she displayed with great pride. It was perfectly new and empty scrapbook, which she confessed had attracted her by its red and blue index. That "some day" would see the book enrolled, but she was content to postpone the leisure to accomplish the task.—Youth's Companion.

Mother's Vacation.

Did you ever thought, girls, as you plan the summer vacation, what a small bit of it, or none at all, falls to mother's share?

She loves to see you looking dainty and sweet as all little women should, but do the very wash dresses that give the desired effect mean to her an added burden of housekeeping cares that she does not have in winter. Such dresses must be properly laundered, if not by her own hands, at least under her personal direction.

Then there is "the table." Of course there ought to be fruits and vegetables in abundance, rather than a heavy meat diet. It takes a large slice of mother's time each day to see that these are properly prepared, not to speak of the canning and preserving that summer imposes on prudent housewives.

Even if you all "go away," mother is not quite care free. Father drops his business, and you young folks set your hearts on nothing save a good time. But the "wash list" is still on mother's mind, the "mending" must be done, though it is vacation!—M. D. Sterling in Good Housekeeping.

A Woman's Project.

The idea of the "New England kitchen" in Boston originated with Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, a graduate of Vassar college, and the only woman instructor in the great Institute of Technology, and she was ably assisted in organizing the work by Mrs. Mary Hinman Abel, whose essay on sanitary and economic cooking won the prize offered by the American Public Health association. Financial support was given by Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, who thus added one more to her many practical philanthropic works.

On Jan. 24, 1890, the kitchen was opened for the sale of food, a sufficient time having been previously spent in collecting facts and making scientific experiments, to make the public test of them desirable. The kitchen is now established on a business basis, and in its regular work is self sustaining. The aim to prove a sort of object lesson in cleanliness has been successful, but has cost more effort and money than were estimated at the outset. One of the difficulties has been in securing trained helpers or even those willing to learn.—Gertrude Talbot in Onward and Upward.

A Prima Donna's Advice for Hot Weather

Emily Post, the prima donna, is a woman of taste and of a practical habit of thought. She is credited with this advice to the summer woman: "I don't like to pose as a doctor, nor to give advice unsought, but perhaps a few words may not come amiss. Of course I presume you are a woman—no man would take the pains to read what a woman has to say upon these momentous subjects—so I will say the first of all things you must do, if you wish to keep cool, is to disregard bangs. Yes, bangs are heating, inasmuch as they are a source of constant anxiety when nature has not made them of a curly inclination, and the worry caused by the thought that they are as straight as broomsticks is enough to make some women get into a perfect fever.

"Let the thought of bangs be brushed from your mind, forget that new fashions exist and wear the coolest clothes you have, whether they are out of date or not. Be lazy, and in no special hurry to accomplish anything. Forget that time does not wait for you, and do nothing except what is necessary. Eat sparingly and sleep all you can if you would know the meaning of rest."

Beware of Summer Colds.

"Beware of summer colds," warns a physician; "city people are likely to be careless how their feet are shod for country walking, the damp earth one finds in village walks necessitates for the feet more protection than do stone pavements, and thin shoes and slippers are not suitable footgear. A summer cold is peculiarly obstinate because of the opportunities for rapid changes of temperature. Mornings and evenings cool, with hot days, need attention to clothing. I think nothing so safe as fine wool underwear all the year around, and I make all my patients wear it who will. Cotton is too good a conductor of heat. The moment the surrounding air becomes cooler than the skin, as it often will when the dew falls or after a sudden rainstorm, it steals heat from the body which is needed. A fresh supply must be had, and this taxation of the system in a delicate person, or even in a strong one, sometimes brings about a local congestion or 'cold,' all of which might have been prevented with woolen underclothing, however light and fine."—New York Times.

Seed Decorations.

The use of seeds for purposes of simple ornamentation is very old, and has of late been revived with good effect for embroidering fancy articles. The best seeds are those of the melon, vegetable marrow and cucumber, assorted according to size, shape and color. After the design has been traced on the material, which may be velvet, plush, cloth or silk, the stalks are put in with gold or maize colored silk in stem, chain or herringbone stitch, and the leaves outlined in a similar manner. Then the seeds are placed in position and fixed by a stitch at either end, care being taken to make them lie flat.

Among the flowers which can be imitated in seed work are marguerites, asters, starwort, jasmine, etc. Ears of corn or barley are very effective, though more difficult to work, owing to the seeds having to be packed close together. On a foundation of maroon velvet or crimson cloth the seeds stand out like ivory in bold relief.

The calyx of the buds is done in crewel work or silk. This work can be adapted to fancy articles of various kinds, such as table borders and centers, banner screens, tea cozies, etc.—Decorator and Furnisher.

Mrs. Stanley's Tribute to Her Husband.

Mrs. Stanley may certainly be regarded as the champion admirer of a husband. When she spoke at the explorer's electioneering meeting at Doulton she said:

I voted for Henry Stanley two years ago in Westminster abbey, and I call on you to vote for him, not for himself, but yourselves and in your interests, because he is a great and a good man, and when you and I have passed away and are forgotten he will be remembered as having been a great man who had served his country well and done noble things for it. You can't make him a greater man than he is by putting M. P. after his name. There are nobodies who want to be somebodies, and in order to get this title they will promise to do everything, but Stanley is a man of his word, and when he says he will do anything he will do it. Stanley wants to extend your trade and to do all he can to develop commerce. Here is Stanley, and if you turn your back on him I say it will be a disgrace to Lambeth, for I think—and I do not say it because I am Mrs. Stanley—that he is the greatest man in England at this moment.

Avoiding the Taste of Codliver Oil.

A fascinating belle on the heights is said to have found a new use for codliver oil. This young woman is charming, but she is too thin to risk another season of evening gowns until she has reformed. Her physician imperatively ordered codliver oil. Now the young woman hates codliver oil with a fervent hatred, and after she had taken half a bottle, in a freak of anger she began to apply the rest externally. Strange to relate, her skin grew smoother and fairer. She kept on, and the desired plumpness began to appear on her shoulders.

The young woman is on the Massachusetts coast, ostensibly for the sea bathing, but her druggist has sent her a case of codliver oil in a plain package by express, and if she comes home with a complexion of roses and cream he will not believe it was wholly the effect of sea bathing.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Hints for Hot Months.

Special care of the sewage must be taken during warm weather, and some disinfectant should be poured down the cesspools and sinks as often as once a week. For outdoor drains nothing is better than copperas. Five cents' worth dissolved in boiling water is a powerful purifier and deodorizer.

Potash or common washing soda dissolved in boiling water is one of the best articles to use in the kitchen sink. It is wise also to keep a little chloride of lime standing about in places of doubtful atmospheric purity, but it

THE TRAIN ROBBERS

A Brighter Sky for George Contant Yesterday.

EVIDENCE FOR THE DEFENSE

The Bigelow Interview Proved—He Met Evans and Sontag in Colley's House.

The sky was brighter for George C. Contant yesterday.

Witnesses testified that his trip to Sampson's Flat to see his brother and Chris Evans was on business connected with mining. Mrs. Evans and her daughter Eva swore that no dress of the texture and color as that out of which the mask had been made, had ever been in their house. The fireman swore that the coat worn by one of the robbers instead of being wine colored was black, and the brakeman testified that he gave the prisoner the screw which the prisoner exhibited at Visalia as a souvenir.

Sam Baker, James Young, A. P. Davis and J. M. Leslie testified as to the movements of Evans and Sontag. Nothing of much moment was elicited. Leslie said that Evans came to his place on the Pease ranch near Selma on August 2d. Evans said he was going to Fresno.

Michael J. Murray, proprietor of the Gem saloon in this city testified that he saw Evans in Fresno two or three days before the robbery.

THE LIVERY TEAM.

F. I. Bequette, a livery man of Visalia, said that on the Friday or Saturday before the robbery John Sontag said he wanted a good team and a strong buggy for the Monday or Tuesday following. He said he was going to Sampson's Flat to bring his brother and Evans down. He got the team on Tuesday morning and drove away alone. The team was returned on Thursday, and it was in such good condition that Mr. Bequette deducted $2 from the livery bill.

In reply to a question by Mr. Coldwell, Mr. Bequette said that it would be a very hard drive for that team with three men weighing 180 pounds each and 100 pounds of coin to go nine miles and then with two men and the coin to go forty-five miles further from midnight to 8 o'clock next morning.

THE TEAM IN FRESNO.

John Armstrong, proprietor of a livery stable on L street near Kern, testified that John Sontag came in with a team and had it put up at his stable on August 2d, the day before the robbery, and at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the next day Sontag ordered his team to be given a feed of grain and his buggy greased, saying that he had a long drive before him. A little before 8 o'clock on that evening Sontag came and drove away the team. It was the same rig that Sontag got from Bequette's stables in Visalia.

Mary E. Elsbe, agent in Wells-Fargo's express office at Visalia, said that John Sontag sent $10 to George Contant in this city.

Edward Alheim, an employe of the United States lodging house on the corner of I and Mariposa streets, swore that a lame man slept with another man in room No. 6 on the night of August 2d. He could not tell whether it was John Sontag or not.

WHERE CONTANT SLEPT.

I. H. Patterson, proprietor of the Hughes lodging house, on the corner of I and Tulare streets, said that George Contant arrived there on the evening of July 14th and remained there until July 22d.

Henry Lawrence, of the Fountain saloon, saw the prisoner in the city a few days before the robbery. The prisoner told the witness that he had come with a team to haul provisions to the mountains.

This closed the testimony for the prosecution.

THE DEFENSE.

After Mr. Coldwell had stated his case he placed Evelyn Evans on the stand. She is the 13-year-old daughter of Chris Evans. She was shown the mask and the similar piece of cloth found in Evans' barn. She swore that she had never seen the cloth before.

MRS. CHRIS EVANS.

Mrs. Chris Evans testified that she was the mother of seven children, Evelyn being the oldest. She also denied that any cloth similar to that alleged to have been found by the detectives in the barn had ever been used in her house.

On August 4th, the day after the robbery, her husband and John Sontag arrived in a buggy drawn by two bay horses. She went out to meet them and examined the buggy to see whether they had brought her anything. She found nothing in the buggy except the robes. George Contant was in the house at the time and had eaten his breakfast there.

On the morning of August 5th John Sontag handed George the key to George's trunk.

On one occasion, while John Sontag was in the mountains, the defendant broke open the trunk to get some clothes out of it. John had the key.

The large black slouch hat introduced in evidence was shown the witness and she said that George Contant never wore a hat of that kind. At the time he left her house on August 2d, the day before the robbery, he wore a light colored hat of small size. He left in a buggy with his brother, and they said that they were going to the mountains.

John Sontag and Chris Evans arrived home on the morning of August 4th, but they said nothing about a train having been robbed. They told her that they had come from the foothills. They arrived at the house at about 8.30 o'clock in the morning and hitched the horses until between 11 and 12 o'clock when, they were taken to the stable.

NOT HER CLOTH.

The piece of cloth corresponding in texture and color to that out of which the mask was made was shown to the witness and she denied ever having seen it before it was produced in court. She never had any cloth of that kind in the house. She also denied the truth of Detective Hickey's statement that he had given her an order for the defendant's trunk or that she had given anyone the key.

There was a perceptible stir in court when the name of Samuel Clark Moore was called. He said that he had been engaged in mining on Sampson Flat for twelve years. He had been acquainted with Chris Evans about fourteen years.

The defendant and Chris Evans stopped at the witness' camp on Sampson Flats on July 26th and 27th, fishing and otherwise amusing themselves. They also talked with the witness regarding Moore's suit against A. Hammersleigh for $5000, the value of the mine. Hammersleigh had offered to give Moore a deed to the mine, but the witness refused to accept it unless they would put him in possession. Chris Evans had located the mine before that and was in possession. Evans and the defendant and Moore talked about the matter and Evans offered to sell his claim to Moore for $1000. Moore referred him and the defendant to Mr. Coldwell, the attorney for Moore.

They left Moore's camp on Thursday morning, July 29th, and told Moore that they were going to the Sampson Flats mine to do some work on it. That was the last time Moore saw George Contant until after his arrest.

"You have known John Sontag for a long time?" asked the district attorney.

"Yes sir; I have known him since 1886."

WHEREABOUTS OF SONTAG AND EVANS.

"Do you know where those two gentlemen are now?"

"They are supposed to be in the mountains," replied Mr. Moore.

"Don't you know where they are?"

"We object," said Mr. Coldwell.

"The object of this," said Mr. Terry, "is to show that this witness is virtually an accessory after the fact of the robbery."

The objection was overruled and the witness replied that he did not know where they were now.

"Have you seen them since August 3, 1892, any where?"

"I met them on September 7th on the trail between Dunlap and Sampson's Flat, and on the 10th on the trail between Crabtrees and Davis Flat. The last time I saw them was on Sampson Flats about three weeks ago."

"Was any one else present?"

"Yes."

"Who?"

PETER BIGELOW WAS THERE.

"Henry Bigelow."

"The reporter for the San Francisco Examiner?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you show Bigelow where they were?"

"No, sir."

"Did you give Mr. Bigelow any information as to the whereabouts of those parties?"

"I did not."

"Didn't Bigelow come to you before you and Bigelow and Evans and Sontag had the conversation on Sampson's Flat?"

"I met Mr. Bigelow in Fresno in the Grand Central hotel, and I was introduced to him there by Tom Bates?"

"What was the business that brought you to Fresno at that time?"

"I came here to attend the fair."

"Did Mr. Bigelow have any conversation with you as to the whereabouts of Evans and Sontag?"

"No, sir; he asked me if I would go with him to Dunlap where he wanted to interview the soldiers, and I told him that I would go with him."

"Do you know a man named Hollingshead?"

"Yes, sir."

"Was he present at that interview?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who else was there at that time?"

THEY HAD COFFEY TOO.

"Will Parker and John Coffey were present also."

"At what place on Sampson's Flat did this interview occur?"

"In Coffey's house about a quarter of a mile or half a mile from my house. It was about noon. Bigelow and I were going to my house together and we stopped at Coffey's house and we found Evans and Sontag there."

"Did anybody keep watch while this conversation was going on?"

"No sir; not that I know of."

"Have you furnished these gentlemen any provisions since that time?"

"I have not."

"Has anyone else?"

"No sir; not that I know of. They ate dinner at dinner at Coffey's that day."

"Did you go to the city with Mr. Bigelow afterwards?"

"Yes sir."

"For what purpose?"

"I don't know of any particular purpose. He asked me to go."

"Mr. Bigelow paid the expenses of the trip?"

"Yes sir."

"How much did you get for that?"

"I didn't get anything."

"You were in the city five or six days with Mr. Bigelow?"

"Yes sir."

"Did you get any presents in the way of clothing?"

"No sir."

"He took you to the theater, did he?"

"Yes sir."

BIGELOW BREW HIMSELF IN.

"And you had a good time generally with him?"

"Yes sir."

"At Mr. Bigelow's expense?"

"Yes sir."

"He was a perfect stranger to you before you met him at the Grand Central Hotel?"

"Yes sir."

"You had no business in San Francisco except to have a good time at Bigelow's expense?"

"No, sir; I had no particular business except something regarding the mine."

"Did you get any money from Mr. Bigelow in the mountains?"

"No sir."

"Did you ever receive directly or indirectly anything from Mr. Bigelow?"

"Well, he gave me a little change, about two bits or something like that. I believe I paid him back. I got between $2 and $3 from him at Sanger. While Mr. Bigelow was in my neighborhood I paid $1 or $1.50 for his board and lodging. Some people thought that Bigelow's report of the interview in the Examiner wasn't true and my presence in San Francisco with him would verify the report. I went to the Examiner office with him several times, and they asked me there if Bigelow had seen Evans and Sontag, and I told them that he had. I had $20 when I left here for San Francisco and I returned with $19 and something."

THE BRAKEMAN WHO WENT FISHING.

L. H. Brasier, a brakeman on the Southern Pacific road from Mendota to Bakersfield, testified that he saw the defendant in Mendota about the 24th or 25th of July. The witness went to the San Joaquin river fishing with the defendant, and on that occasion Contant told him that he had gone asleep on the cars and had been carried past Fresno to Mendota. The witness also saw the defendant on the robbed train when the train left Fresno going south after the robbery and gave the defendant a screw that he had found in the express car as a souvenir. The witness found two screws and gave one of them to the defendant at the defendant's request.

CONTANT WAS DRUNK.

J. I. Clement, another brakeman on the same division, saw the defendant on the train between Collis and Mendota on July 23d. The defendant was asleep and the ticket collector told the witness to go and wake him up. The witness did so and found the defendant stupid from drink.

David Scott, a busdriver for the Crawford house in Visalia, saw George Contant on the night of July 18th on the way from Fresno to Goshen. The witness drove Contant to the train bound for Fresno on the occasion on which Contant fell asleep and was carried past Fresno. Contant was so drunk that the witness had to assist him off the bus at the depot and help him to get on the train. Contant had a pint bottle of whisky with him.

THE FIREMAN WAS SCARED.

William Lewis, the fireman of the robbed train, was the next witness.

On the night of August 3d a short stop was made at Collis to take in a trunk on. After the train had left Collis about a quarter of a mile out, one of the robbers came over the tank and the other stood on the gangway. The latter rubber told Engineer Phipps to go on and the other told the witness to shut the door of the firebox. One of the robbers wore a kind of white duster and a pair of new overalls. He was the smaller of the two. The other man had a little black coat on. The light from the firebox shone on the man with the black coat. The witness was so much frightened that he hardly know what he was doing. The black coated robber was not more than three or four feet away from the witness.

A SHOULDER REST.

When the train stopped at Rolinda, Engineer Phipps got out of the window, the witness and the large rubber got off the right hand side of the engine and the small robber and Babb got off the left hand side. Then the robber rested his shotgun on the shoulder of the witness and fired four shots. The robber made the witness go the left hand side of the engine and walk toward the express car, the robber following. The small robber stood in front of the express car. The small robber was throwing bombs. He had a hole blown in the side of the car and he threw the bombs into the hole into the car.

ROBERTS SURRENDERED.

The robbers put the witness through the hole and he saw Messenger Roberts extending his hands. He and the messenger were pulled out of the hole and one of them put a gun to Roberts' head and told him that he would blow his head off if there was another man in the car. Lewis was boosted through the hole again and was followed by the robber and the messenger.

The witness heard the robber say to the messenger, "Hurry up and get that safe out." They got three sacks of coin. He did not see the robber strike the messenger with a shotgun, nor thrust the gun into his mouth, nor knock him down on his knees. They sent the witness for a torch before they went into the car.

The witness carried two of the sacks to the engine and at that point Babb appeared and took one of the sacks in response to a request of the witness. The witness saw Contant in jail previous to the preliminary examination, but could not identify him. He believed that the defendant was a larger man than either of the robbers.

The court adjourned until 9.30 this morning.

Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Meux was the time and place appointed for the experience meeting. It was an interesting and enjoyable affair. The testimonies were short, but to the point and quite laughable. After this all repaired to the dining hall where refreshments were served.

ROBBED IN JAIL.

HIGH HANDED DEED OF THE KANGAROO COURT.

They Rob Tom Cannon of $15—Pat Malloy, the Sheriff, Was Ring Leader.

Thomas Cannon, arrested the day before for being drunk, appeared before Recorder Laning yesterday for trial. Cannon pleaded guilty and was fined $5. This led to an interesting disclosure on the part of Cannon.

Cannon stated he could not pay the fine because the $15 he had upon being put in jail had been forcibly taken from him by the members of the kangaroo court. The reason this money was not discovered upon him by the jailer when searched by the latter, was that Cannon had on two pairs of trousers and two shirts. The outside shirt had been pulled over the inside trousers, in which he had the money hiding.

Yesterday morning he took his purse from the pocket of the inside trousers, for the purpose of taking from it enough money to pay his fine. He was discovered in this by several members of the kangaroo court, who pounced upon him and took the money from him. Such is Cannon's story.

Recorder Laning let him off without a fine and Cannon then swore to a complaint charging Pat Malloy with robbery. Malloy is the sheriff of the kangaroo court and the one who, Cannon says, appropriated the $5 which he had taken from his purse with which to pay his fine.

Malloy was brought down from the jail, as were several kangaroosters, for examination. He denied that he had taken any money from Cannon, but admitted that he and others had held Cannon and searched him. This was in accordance with the "rules" of the kangaroo court. The only thing they robbed Cannon of was a piece of chewing tobacco, which they divided among themselves. The other jail birds also denied that any money had been taken from Cannon. Recorder Laning took the case under advisement.

Cannon is a hard working man, being employed on the vineyard of A. Sachs. He asserts positively that Malloy and other prisoners forcibly took his money from him. Malloy has done time in state's prison and is now serving a four months' sentence for petty larceny.

VALUES APPRECIATED.

The Rush at Browns Popular Dry Goods House Causes a Demand for More Salesmen.

That the ladies of Fresno know good values when offered to them is evidenced by the enormous business transacted during the past two days at Browns. A well known fact has been demonstrated that Brown always carried the choicest novelties.

This taken together with the offer to sell the stock at bankrupt prices, has created a genuine sensation among buyers who appreciate values.

From appearances the advertisement of Brown's house for two salesmen, which appears in today's REPUBLICAN will have to be augmented by another ad for three or four more salesmen.

Interest increases in the sale every day; the entire stock is being marked down as rapidly as possible.

Brown states that owing to the magnitude of his stock the marking cannot be done in a day.

The goods are going so rapidly that whole lines are closed out in a day. Those looking for bargains are advised not to delay their visit.

THE RAISIN WAR.

Answer of the Producer's Packing Company

TO THE GRIFFIN SKELLEY CO.

The Sequel to the Article Headed "Treason Denied"—Two Important Letters.

Editor Republican.—In the issue of your paper of October 7th, under the head of "Treason Denied," you make a statement that the Producers' Union Brokerage, Commission & Warehouse company of Richmond, Va., had publicly made a statement that Messrs. Griffin Skelley Co. had violated their agreement with the State Raisin Growers' association by falsely back-dating a certain contract so as to make it appear that the company had broken its agreement with the association.

You then go on to give documentary evidence which you claim shows the fact that the charge made against them is wholly false and unfounded, and you call on the Producers' Raisin Packing company to make honorable amends, or to produce stronger evidence.

We forwarded a copy of your paper to Mr. John Adam, manager of the Union Brokerage, Commission & Warehouse company of Richmond, Va., and you will kindly publish the enclosed letters from him to us in conjunction with the other from Mr. West of the same city, written at the solicitation of Mr. Adams. We wish here to state that the publicity given was in this wise, that we sent to William Harvey, secretary of the California Raisin Grower's association a copy of the letter written by Mr. Adam and he put the matter before Griffin & Skelley and they claim to give documentary evidence to disprove it. We think the within letters will throw considerable light upon the subject, also show that Mr. Adam has not falsified as it is intimated in your paper of October 7th.

The office of the Union Brokerage, Commission and Warehouse Company, of Richmond, Va.

Office and warerooms 112 and 114 South Seventeenth street.

Richmond, Va., October 20, 1892.

The Producers' Raisin Packing company, Fresno, Cal.

Gentlemen—Having received a copy of the Fresno Daily Republican of Friday, October 7, 1892, which contains an article headed "Treason Denied," and as this article impeaches my honesty and integrity, I desire to state the whole transaction.

Having shown W. B. West, of W. B. West Co., the samples of raisins of the Producers' Raisin Packing company, in the hands of J. H. Kelley, the agent (August 8. 1892), and Mr. West being pleased with same, on August 11th he gave me an offer of $1.55 f.o.b. for 150 boxes No. 1 London Layer raisins. This order was mailed on the same day.

On August 22d the Producers' Raisin Packing company declined the above order by wire, and I so informed Mr. West the same day, he (Mr. West) telling me at the time that he had canceled his order with the Griffin & Skelley company.

On August 23d I again saw Mr. West and solicited his order at the advanced price, and he told me that he had seen the Griffin & Skelley company's agent that morning, and gotten his order accepted at old prices.

In regard to letter under date of September 29, 1892, signed William B. West, I would state that Mr. West informed me that he wrote this letter at the solicitation of the agent of the Griffin & Skelley company, in order to save that company any forfeit they might have up with the packers' combination.

It will be seen, therefore, by the letter of Mr. West dated October 19, 1892, that after the Producers' Raisin Packing company declined his offer, he had his order accepted by the Griffin & Skelley company, all of which proves the assertion in my letter of August 29, 1892, to the Producers' Packing company.

Yours truly, John Adam,
Manager of The Union Brokerage Commission & Warehouse company.

Dictated, J. A.

You will also kindly publish the following letter:

Office of William B. West Co.,
Successors to Bowie & West,
Wholesale Wooden Ware and Fancy Groceries.
No. 9 South Fourteenth Street.
Richmond, Va., October 19, 1892.

Dictated W. B. W.
John Adams Esq.
Mgr., the Union Brokerage Commission Co.

Dear Sir.—At your request I make the following explanation: On August 11, 1892, I gave Mr. Capers an order for 500 boxes of raisins to be shipped from the Griffin & Skelley company. This order was given with the understanding that I could cancel any part or all of it. I also gave an order to the Producers' Packing company, through the Union Brok. Com. & W. H. Co. I then canceled my order with Mr. Capers, except as to the Peacock brand.

The Producers' Packing company declined my order as being less than their prices. I then saw Mr. Capers after seeing the telegram from the Producers' Packing company and requested him to renew my order for 100 boxes of G. & S. brand at the price originally taken. My order, which had been canceled, was accepted by Mr. Capers for the G. & S. brand, at $1.55 per box.

Mr. Capers afterwards called on me, and asked me to give him a letter setting forth the facts in the case, so as to set the G. & S. Co. right before the packers' combination, which I did as nearly as I could, but with no intention of having it published, as I had no desire to cause either the G. & S. Co. or the Producers' Packing company to have trouble.

The above are the facts as nearly as I can remember as I took no memorandum of the dates at the time.

Yours truly, Wm. B. West Co.,
Wm. B. West, president.

We would also call your attention to the following facts which might pass a casual observer in regard to the statements made under this article of "Treason Denied." You will notice the telegram signed J. H. Capers & Company, is not dated, also the telegram in the same article signed the Griffin & Skelley company, is dated the 11th, without stating any month. It may have been September 11th.

As Messrs. Griffin & Skelley have published in your paper these statements impeaching the veracity of Mr. John Adams, manager of the Union Brokerage, Commission & Warehouse company we take these means of assisting him in showing to packers and producers on this coast that the statement was not false and he is perfectly willing to furnish affidavits if it should be necessary, to the truthfulness of his statements, and we have no doubt that Mr. West would do the same if it was brought before him in a legal light.

We would now invite Griffin & Skelley to refute these charges if they can with evidence that is not quite so easily picked to pieces. Yours truly,

W. F. Forsey.

LOU J. BEAUCHAMP.

His Complimentary Benefit by the Citizens.

Lou J. Beauchamp, the well-known temperance lecturer who has conducted the fight against the demon rum in this county for several weeks past, bade farewell to the people of this city last night. As a mark of appreciation for his services in the cause the citizens arranged a complimentary benefit for Mr. Beauchamp and there was a large attendance at the Advent church to bid the temperance advocate God speed.

The exercises were opened with a vocal duet by Mesdames Kirk and Evans, who sang very sweetly. They were vigorously applauded. After a prayer, Mrs. Evans rendered a solo in an excellent voice.

Lou J. Beauchamp made one of his usual stirring temperance addresses, prefixing his remarks by saying that owing to the great calamity which has befallen the President, and out of respect to the honored dead, he would not speak on local or national politics. He then launched forth into one of his characteristic addresses in which he related many interesting anecdotes bearing on the subject of temperance. He prophesied that the day would soon come when the curse of drink would be swept away, and urged his hearers to join some temperance organization and assist in the work of emancipating the people from the curse which is sapping the manhood of the nation.

At the conclusion of his address he feelingly thanked the people of Fresno for their many kindnesses to him, saying that he had not been treated any better anywhere in all his travels. He also thanked the newspapers for their kindly assistance and for their honest reports of his meetings.

Mr. Beauchamp will leave soon for Oakland where he will lecture before his departure for the east.

It was announced that M. C. Leavitt will lecture on temperance on next Wednesday evening in the Advent church.

GOODRICH DISMISSED.

He Had Nothing to Do With Lee's Murder.

William E. Goodrich, the negro arrested with H. E. Whitesides, alias Three-fingered Jack," on suspicion of knowing something of the murder of Albert Lee, was brought before Recorder Laning yesterday.

The authorities have been investigating Goodrich's account of himself and have found it to be correct. They are of the opinion that he knew nothing of Lee's murder, and Recorder Laning being of the same opinion discharged him.

Goodrich formerly worked for S. C. Lillis on the grant, and is known by a number of people in the county. He is said not to have been in trouble before. He met Whitesides in Merced and followed him to this place, remaining in his company several days. Goodrich says he had not the least idea what tale Whitesides was telling Evangelist Gallahorn the day before their arrest, and certainly had not the slightest suspicion of Whiteside's peculiar reference to him, Goodrich, to the effect that he would do anything Whitesides told him to.

Whitesides is still in jail. Yesterday Jailer Moore swore to a complaint charging him with speaking through the bars to prisoners, which offense he committed a day or two before his arrest on suspicion of being connected with Lee's murder.

DEADLY GRAPE SEEDS.

Another Death Caused by Swallowing Them.

Dr. James N. Tharp, who resides on Jensen avenue, died yesterday morning after a three weeks' illness, caused by swallowing grape seeds.

A postmortem examination by the Drs. Maupin revealed the fact that a large quantity of grape seeds had become impacted in the transverse colon. This caused a severe inflammation of the bowels, terminating in the rupture of the colon, followed immediately by the death of the patient.

The usual place where grape seeds are found to be fatal is in the appendix vermiformis or worm shaped intestine. This intestine is a cul de sac and the seeds cannot get out of it after once being securely lodged there. Grape seeds have also caused death by lodging in the iliocecal valve.

Dr. Maupin says that cases of death caused by eating grape seeds are more frequent than is generally supposed. Children especially should not be allowed to eat grapes unless the seeds have been previously taken out of the fruit.

A Marriage Annulled.

Judge Harris has given judgment for plaintiff in the case of Rile McDonald against Dollie McDonald. McDonald and the defendant were married in November, 1891. At that time, alleged the plaintiff, Dollie had a former husband living and that their marriage had never been dissolved. Plaintiff therefore asked that the marriage between himself and the defendant be dissolved.

It is Plain Frank.

G. Frank Abbott, the real estate man, wishes it to be distinctly understood that he is not the Frank Abbott who is defendant in the damage suit brought by Frank Butterick for the alienation of his wife's affections. It is another Frank Abbott.

BEAUTIFUL ALGAE

ON DISPLAY AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

An Exhibit Worth Seeing—Delicate Tracery and Fine Coloring of the Sea Plants.

There is an unique exhibit at the First Baptist church which none who like the novel and beautiful should fail to see. It is an exhibition of algae, more commonly known as sea mosses. There are about 230 species to be found on this coast, and nearly 150 of these are displayed at the church. In all there are over 1000 specimens exhibited, there being a number from the Sandwich islands, Jamaica, the coast of Oregon and Mexico.

The specimens have all been dried out and are mounted, or "floated," on white card board. One can spend an interesting half hour looking at them. The delicate tracery of the sea plants and their beautiful coloring is remarkable, and is a surprise to those who were under the impression that they were about to see some musty and uninteresting botanical exhibit.

Some of the specimens are mounted on china plates, silk, satin, bolting cloth, and glass and make beautiful decorative pieces. The collection was gathered by Miss M. J. Westfall and it required six years to make it. Most of the specimens were obtained from the ocean at Monterey bay by Miss Westfall herself. She has exhibited them in many places and to many people. This morning at 10.30 o'clock Miss Westfall will give a brief lecture on algae for the benefit of the public school children who will visit the exhibition. The old folks, for that matter, might come too and see and learn something they never saw or knew before.

JUMBLED ALARMS.

They Caused Much Confusion Last Night.

Early last evening some visitors to the residence of Mrs. William Patterson on M street, near Kern, saw a glare in one of the bedrooms up stairs. They found an Excelsior mattress in flames on the floor and extinguished the fire with dish-pans of water.

Some of the inmates had stepped on a match on the floor and the matting took fire and set the mattrass on fire also.

In the meantime an alarm was turned in from box 8 and some injudicious person holding key No. 23 turned in an alarm from box 14 at court house park. This tangled up the alarm system, the register showing box 5 in engine house No. 2. The fire department accordingly went in the wrong direction down Mariposa street, but afterwards when the mistake had been rectified the engines proceeded to M street, but their services were not required.

The acting chief of the fire department requests citizens not to turn in an alarm when the city hall bell begins to strike because by that time the alarm has been already received. When two alarms are sent in at the same time the system gets jumbled up. It is a good rule never to send in an alarm for a fire seen at a distance.

George Anderson of engine company No. 2 broke a finger while hitching the horses in the engine house.

A Literary Society.

A number of young men of this city will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the rooms of the Raisin City wheelmen for the purpose of organizing a literary and debating society. An organization of this kind cannot but have good results, and the young men of the city should take a deep interest in it.

Escallier Under Bonds.

The awards will be made as soon thereafter as possible.

Address Secretary of Cleveland Baking Powder Co., 81 Fulton St., New York.

Some Facts that may give you a hint or suggestion:

Cleveland's baking powder is perfectly pure and wholesome.
It does not contain alum, ammonia or any other adulterant.
Everything used in making it is named on the label.
Consumers know exactly what they are eating.
It is the strongest of all pure cream of tartar powders.
A rounded teaspoonful will do as much as a heaping one of any other.
Food raised with it does not dry up quickly, as when made with other powders.
It is more convenient and more economical than the ordinary cream of tartar and soda.
The latest official reports show it to be first class, and first in its class.
The U. S. Government buys it for the Army officers.
Government Chemists, State Assayers and other official authorities testify to its superiority.
Writers on domestic science, as Marion Harland, Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Parker, endorse it.
Teachers of cooking, as Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Rorer and Mrs. Dearborn, prefer it.
These are some of its points of excellence; others may have occurred to some of the thousands of women who are using it every day. Other facts are given in our cook book. Mailed free.

WASHINGTON COLONY.

The People Turn Out to Hear Republican Speakers.

The large hall at Easton, Washington colony, was packed with people last night who turned out to hear Republican speakers on the issues of the campaign.

The speakers were attentively listened to and frequently interrupted by applause. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

Dr. Rowell made a temperate speech on national issues. He carefully dissected the platform of the People's Party and showed its absurdities and inconsistencies.

Professor Miller of Fresno colony school explained the manner of voting under the new election law.

Frank H. Short spoke on national politics. He laid great stress on electing the Republican candidates to the legislature in this county as the election of a United States senator is involved. Protection to American labor and American industries will not be conserved unless the Republican party maintain its majority in the senate of the United States.

Jay Scott, G. N. Freman, W. A. Shepherd, Eli Henderson, George L. Hoxie and Dr. M. V. Yancey followed with short addresses.

Active Preparation For the Aid Society's Bazar.

The members of the Fresno Catholic Ladies Aid Society are most indefatigable workers. At present they are directing every effort toward making a success of the bazar, which is to be held in Armory hall on the evenings of the 4th, 5th and 7th of next month. The program for each evening to include dancing and refreshments will be published in a few days. The booth wherein the friends of the candidates for sheriff may signify their choice, will, no doubt, do a rushing business. There will be other fancy booths and decorations, so that a visit to the bazar will be worth the price of admission, without considering the fact that the money goes to the helpless and needy of Fresno. The price of admission is fixed at 25 cents; children accompanied by parents free; unaccompanied 10 cents.
